An Earthy Paradise for Eyes
Zemský ráj to napohled

The film tells the story of Martha, her two adolescent daughters and their successively arriving and departing "daddies". The tale is totally apolitical at first, but due to Martha's ex-husband and her further partners, gradually her entire family gets involved in the dissident movement. One day Martha meets the well-known writer and dissident Jan Pavel, a character based on Václav Havel, the former President of the Czech Republic. Martha soon starts living with Jan, and her daughters thus find themselves in the centre of events and become its actively organic part.

Leaving
Odcházení

A bitter sweet comedy follows a womanizing former political leader who is stepped down from his position after years of service to his unnamed country. With just two last days left to enjoy his extravagant government villa before he is finally evicted, his situation gradually goes from bad to worse. The film is not just about the leaving of one politician from his office, but more generally about the phenomenon of change itself: every second something done and something irretrievably goes. We do not know from where everything emerges and know even less to where it disappears. This is in fact a classic theme of dramas: the end. The end of a man. The end of an era. The end of a community. The end of love. The film Leaving is first directorial film effort of Václav Havel former president of the Czech Republic. He received many national awards, international awards and honorary doctorates for his literary works, for his opinions, and for his lifelong efforts on the observance of human rights.

May
Máj

The epic historical movie May was inspired by the poem by Karel Hynek Mácha, a master piece of Czech romanticism. A captivating story of a love triangle which involved two men and one girl is narrated by a Hangman. Love and passion but also a guilt and punishment are set against the background of nature that represents a demonic and an indifferent power which is pulsing in its own rhythm and confronted with human passions.

Men in Rut
Muži v říji

The bittersweet comedy about big matters in a small place is also a sharp political satire. Everyone entices everyone else with their own aims, their own ego, their own pleasures. The story unravels in the village of Mourinov that lies "at the end of the road". The inhabitants naturally long to become a "through-road" village and they realize they need to draw attention to themselves. As they have among them a champion in enticing stags in rut, they decide to hold a European championship in this interesting discipline. The whole village is involved in the preparations – and also in some budding relationships. The preparations influence their lives as much as these relationships influence the preparations for the championship. The great day is here at last and the Premier and a Minister arrive, and with them the great big world enters the as yet unknown village.

A Case for a Fisherman Případ pro rybáře

A glorious summer day, perfect for bathing, going on a hike, picking wild mushrooms in the forest ... And angling, too. Captain Vašátko and his friend Horác set out for a country cottage, to enjoy their hard-earned holidays. They are looking forward to spending a full fortnight sitting on the lake bank, keeping silent and angling.

Twenty-five-year-old driver Dan Pašolt is stopped on the outskirts of Prague by a girl thumbing a lift to Vodňany (a town in South Bohemia). The next day Dan is detained by the police and remanded into custody – the hitchhiking girl has been found dead at Písek, a town before her destination. No-one has any doubts as to the murderer – except for Captain Vašátko, who resents jumping at conclusions and wants at least to try to prove Dan's innocence. He untangles the complicated history of Dan and the dead girl, identified as Milena Stárková, and gradually puts together the mosaic of their pseudo-friends and colleagues. Who had reasons to get rid of her, about whom did she know too much, and therefore had to die? Did she really let Dan drop her before they reached Vodňany? Why and on whom did she want to take revenge – if she intended to take it at all?

Applause Aplaus

A psychological drama with a criminal plot. The protagonists, a young couple, have promising careers ahead of them – Hana as a classical music singer, Dan as the pianist who accompanies her. They win a prestigious competition, and immediately attract great attention of the musical circles. Their agent is sending them to perform all over the country, they sing and play and are happy. And then one night, on their way home from a concert, a second of careless driving causes the wheel of Fortune to jam. On the road in the midst of the forest, their car knocks down an old (and evidently drunk) man, who rejects their offer of help – but soon afterwards he dies. Even though Hana and Dan confess and take all the blame, their career crumbles. Their agent doesn't want to have any further dealing with them, and their misfortune becomes a fine catch for the gutter press. Winners become losers, lovers become killers. But however bad things look at first sight, there is still hope. They part – in order to come together again later.

Beauty and the Beast 1950 Kráska a netvor 1950

The year of 1950... while some people are enthusiastically building up a totalitarian state, others are fleeing from it in fright. And some are seen no more. Like Jarmila, doctor Maria's sister. True enough, a letter came from her, with a West-German stamp, but it was addressed to "Maruška" – though Jarmila never used this diminutive form of calling her sister. Such is the beginning of a dramatic story: first an almost ungrounded doubt, then the intuition of a loving sister. Maria sets out to follow the trail – which is about all that can be revealed. It is a thrilling, raw story, in which more than one life is at stake.

The Gravedigger
Hrobník

The central figure of the story is a serial killer who murders businessmen whom he has lured to his "luxury farm" under the pretext of its sale. But one of the murders sticks out among the others, though it does resemble them in some respects. The chief suspect is the widow of the victim, who at the same time appears in the role of amateur investigator. She decides to go it alone and find the murderer, whom – in her opinion – the police are unable to catch. Who, then, is the real perpetrator of this shrewdly conceived crime? It is not just a detective story with a question mark, but also a poignant criticism of today's thoughtless pursuit of money and material estates, and other ailments of the present-day real world.

Shadow of the Death's Head
Stín smrtihlava

The scene of crime is a community centre, where preparations are under way for an alumnae's party. The murder of one of the ex-schoolmates, a (female) psychologist, is not the only theme of the story. The crime has certain features typical of those perpetrated by deviants, but also some bizarre, ritual elements. The victim – an attractive, but intolerant woman, has contributed by her stubborn approach to the conviction of a large number of criminals, sentenced to many years in prison. But some of her colleagues had good reasons to hate her just as much. She was pushy, and did not hesitate to hit below the belt. We are following the story of a recently released prisoner, who is convinced that she has wronged him and is determined to get even with her. Parallel to the purely "detective" line is that of the ex-convict's story – a rough thriller. Both genres intersect in the dramatic finale. Because a dangerous and lethal threat, so far concealed, is lurking in the background...

Stop Crying, you're Dead 1-2 Jseš mrtvej, tak nebřeč

Television film in two parts, by the investigative journalist and scriptwriter Josef Klíma, based on his detective novel of the same name.

A man unjustly sentenced twenty years ago to life imprisonment for murder is suffering behind bars while the real murderer, member of the smart set, is living in the glare of popularity and public recognition. Ellis, a Czecho-American, visits the seriously ill prisoner, with the intention to obtain presidential pardon for him. During her visit she learns the truth about the murder, committed at the time of the totalitarian regime. Apart from suspense and surprising twists, the story offers a gripping retrospective glance of the atmosphere in Prague of the 1980s, prior to the Velvet Revolution, when goods of practically all sorts were in short supply, and as the Czech currency was inconvertible, illicit money-changing thrived. University student Peter Liška becomes one of the links in the chain of fraudsters and wheeler-dealers. As a result, he lacks neither pals nor money, and indulges in all life's delights to his heart's content. Everything is fine – until Peter finds his accomplice and best friend Paul in a pool of blood. Frightened that the police might arrest him as a suspect, he decides to go it alone and track the murderer down himself. The unexpected unravelling of the case conveys well the absurdity of some aspects of the transformation of the communist into a "new-age capitalist" society. The finale strongly resembles the current reality of our society.

The Candy Café Cukrárna

Comedic serial in thirteen parts about a small candy café near a Prague cemetery. She has four children, including an adolescent daughter who is head over heels in love, twins Peter and Paul, keen footballers, who never sit still, and little Adélka. Plus a scholarly husband who is interested only in medieval history. And so, with all the responsibility on her shoulders, she does not know which way to jump. When a charming trio of retired ladies – Blažena, Dana and Olga – visit her café and rightly complain about the quality of the cakes and the service, it does not occur to her that she could be instrumental in thoroughly changing their lives. Blažena's daughter, son-in-law and grandchild have just left for the United States, and she – used always to look after others – finds it hard to cope with her loneliness. But she's an indomitable optimist full of energy, and decides to work in the café, together with her friends Dana and Olga, and save not only the failing business from bankruptcy but also the marriage and family of its owner from break-up. The dispassionate view and presence of mind of the three experienced ladies win and help to find a solution in even the most dramatic situations.

Cops and Robbers Četnické humoresky

This television series takes place during the first Czechoslovak Republic (1918–1939). The stories make use of the historical existence of an investigative constabulary unit (the precursors of today's detectives) and its actual cases. At the time, the constables were a key organization, helping to investigate and solve criminal activities in mainly the countryside and small towns. The lead characters in the series are constables from the Brno investigative unit who solve crime as part of their everyday experience – from tragic and violent felonies to banal and even slightly humorous cases of petty thievery and other wrongdoing. Each episode usually features a serious case and one seemingly less important. At the same time we are given a peek into the private lives of the officers in the investigative unit and thus get to know something about their joys and cares, their loves and desires.

Hospital at the End of the City Nemocnice na kraji města

A series abounding in suspense, twists of events, as well as sharp-witted messages and catch phrases, taking us through the lives of its protagonists, and showing the practice of a community hospital orthopaedic department from many different angles.

The orthopaedic department boasts many an outstanding surgeon – Dr. Sova the senior, its head, the womanizer Dr. Blažej, the scintillatingly witty Dr. Štrosmajer... the performance of the not-too competent but all the more self-confident Dr. Cvach, on the other hand, hardly does it credit. The newcomer Dr. Čeňková is not put off pursuing the career of an orthopaedic surgeon by Dr. Sova's initial underestimation of her capabilities, and becomes one of the best in her field. Later on, the young doctor Peterka joins the team.

Apart from the stories and events taking place in the hospital environment, the private lives of the hospital employees receive attention as well. Thus we see the wedding of Dr. Karel Sova the junior with Dr. Čeňková, and wonder how the love affair of Dr. Blažej, a married man, with nurse Ina Galušková (later to get married to the ambulance driver Roman Jáchym) and the relationship of Dr. Dana Králová with Dr. Vladimír Řehoř will develop. Originally the series had thirteen parts, and as it was highly successful, another seven episodes were added.

Čapek's Pockets
Čapkovy kapsy

The series entitled Čapek's Pockets represents a novel and unique student project in which talented young directors and experienced scriptwriters came together to produced their rendering of Tales from One Pocket and Tales from the Other Pocket by the outstanding Czech writer Karel Čapek. Rather than experimenting with the model, its authors sought to "put new life" into the classical piece of literature, and commemorate Čapek's great mastery as a writer and thinker. The tales with crime plots of a humorous slant are situated in the 1920s and 1930s, and their protagonists are not big criminals but petty thieves or little crooks. And the detective is an ordinary man, too. The main focus is always on capturing the diversity of personality types – people whom their life situation forces to deal with things the way they do.

Village Green
Náves

A proper village square should have a pub, a church, a village hall and in the middle a pond with a couple of benches, where people can gossip about important happenings. The Krepelka sisters, two lively old ladies who are featured throughout the series of independent stories from the life of a contemporary Czech village, usually know about everything that's going on. And as the village does not lie far from the town of Bor, round whose town square we already followed human fates in the series Town Square, we shall find many a character we have met before.

Doktor Animo

Doctor Animo is a whiz at curing any pain animals may suffer, but he knows how to fulfill their wishes, too. Luckily, he is also capable of showing the animals ahead of time what would happen if their often foolish wishes really were to come true. And so we see clearly what would happen were a hippopotamus to fly, if a hare were as large as a bear, or if an elephant didn't have a trunk. How glad the animals are to be what they were meant to be!

Jerboas
Tarbíci

Eyes like a mouse's, legs like a kangaroo's, tail like a lion's – and jumping like a flea. Such animal does not exist, you say? But it does! It is called jerboa, and lives in the African desert. The protagonists of this series, the enterprising jerboa siblings Tom and Tina, set out on an expedition into wild nature every day, taking care to steer clear of the "awful marabou", as their Dad advises them. Marabou is a large African stork, and a traditional, sworn enemy of the jerboas. But what Tom and Tina's father does not know is that the marabou that they have befriended is still tiny, and the only "awful" thing about it is its clumsiness. And if they did not keep an eye on it, it would certainly come to some harm. And so Tom, Tina and the little marabou meet secretly and play together, because – similar to children – they choose their friends not depending on which species they belong to, but according to their character. In the individual episodes we will also make our acquaintance of other exotic animals, for instance the Indian flying fox, tortoise, monkey, snake and parrot.

An Angel of the Lord Anděl Páně

A tale about love, forgiveness and the ability to help others selflessly. Angel Petronel is a charming middle-pate, whatever he touches he wrecks or ruins, even the honourable office he is entrusted with as Guardian of the Heavenly Gate. By way of punishment, God sends him down to Earth, so that he learns about how hard it is to live a blameless life. But what a calamity it becomes, having this scatterbrain try to convince people that he is God's messenger! Moreover, what can one expect of an angel who is naïve enough to believe that Uriah the Devil is his friend! Luckily he has support up in Heaven – all the saints and their miracles. Finally he grows wise he is even willing to go to hell in order to help the blossoming of a romance between the Count and his impoverished Dorothy.

At the Sign of the Golden Dawn Dům U Zlatého úsvitu

Exterior shots of Telč, a historical town on the UNESCO World Heritage lists, costumes worn during the first third of the twentieth century, comic elements and a fairy-tale ending. All this is in the grotesquely dramatic story that unravels in the imaginary township called Wanderville. Wanderville indeed... twelve-year-old Ondra has been wandering about aimlessly since the death of his beloved grandfather, though he tries hard to pull himself together and be in control again. He is being hindered in his intentions by the arrogant mayor and his toady councilors and also by the mayor's wife, who has decided that for her new fashion salon she must have the house where Ondra's grandfather sold books. It seems that all will be resolved in peace, when Heliodromus the fortune-teller comes to Wanderville – he sees beneath the surface of things and right into people's hearts. At his advice, Ondra starts searching for real riches in his grandfather's bookshop, wealth that will help him get on in life, riches that nobody can ever take away from him.

The Chimney-Sweep and the Pastry-Cook's Daughter O kominickém učni a dceři cukráře

The romantic fairy-tale is about an unloved orphan boy who achieved happiness through his own goodness, diligence and perseverance.

After his parents' death, the boy's uncle apprenticed Tomas out to a chimney-sweep, master Dymal. He gave Tom a hard time and life with the Dymal family was an added burden he had to bear. But Tom was fast learner, even though he would so much have liked to become a baker like his father, from whom he had learned a lot during his early years. He was lucky – the local master pastry-cook noticed the boy's diligence and took him in to be taught his craft. But Tom still had many a problem to resolve before he came into his own and also found a new home.

A fairy tale about a little boy and a kind-hearted witch nicknamed Kitty Mama, a princess who needs to be saved, and a wise puppeteer who knows what true love is.

The shadow of a big dragon hovers over the royal castle, Princess Caroline is trying on a mourning dress, while a couple of invited princes are wining and dining in the courtyard, none of them ready to confront the dragon. In the end, only the puppeteer Vítek, who loves Caroline, sets out to fight it. When the worst comes to the worst, the witch Kitty Mama unexpectedly comes to his aid. The dragon is overpowered, but the Princess must not learn who is her rescuer – because, as Kitty Mama points out, good deeds are not done because of the prospect of reward. And so Caroline gets engaged to Prince Vladimír, and Kitty Mama returns from the fairy tale to her home in Prague's Lesser Town. Which is where ten-year-old Jirka lives, too. He loves his dog Dodo, who is however seriously ill, and Jirka worries about it a lot. Puppeteer Vítek is sad, too, and Caroline is not happy either. Kitty Mama has no choice but to return to the fairy tale and try to sort things out. And she takes Jirka with her.

Love with Horns On Láska rohatá

As hinted in the title, in this fairy tale we encounter devils, but mainly find love. The saying that real love blossoms at any age and also among all living creatures, is borne out in an original and colourful manner by Squirt the kindly little devil and the good maid Annie, whose paths are intertwined by fate. The couple meet before the gateway to Hell. Annie was brought there by her rich mistress's greed – who was beset by the longing for something unheard of – to own a pair of gold eyes, which cannot be bought at a goldsmith's, they can only be procured in Hell.

The little devil Squirt – surely of the lowest category of demons – happens to be there at the same time. He has been given the task of acquiring yet another bond for Hell. Unfortunately he is somewhat clumsy and has not quite mastered the skills of Lucifer's realm. And so his devilish grandmother Elvira must help him out.

The Treasure O pokladech

The play on the programme is based on a local legend about a huge treasure hidden deep underground. Many are those who wish to find it, but whoever sets out to look for it never returns. The protagonists of the performance are two sisters, Kačenka (Kathy) and Barbra, and musician Jakub (Jake), Barbra's jealous boyfriend. The theme of the play appeals to the greedy lord of the chateau Bořivoj of Hájek, who comes with his brother Ignatz, eccentric inventor and explorer. While somewhere underneath, at the real treasure, its three ghostly guards sit and devise all sorts of pastimes which do not please the Ruler of the Underground at all. His patience runs out when the bored guards interfere with the fates of the humans – making a bet about how the relationship between Jakub and Barbra will turn out. A series of unfortunate, sometimes comic misunderstandings culminates in a dangerous expedition of three treasure seekers – Barbra, Jakub and lord Bořivoj – of whom each has different motivation, and each is faced different trials and pitfalls...

And so he departs for the royal court to defend his honour, leaving the fortress in the hands of his eldest son Peter and his siblings. Fairy Tales for Puppies Pohádky pro štěňátka

In the series of thirteen episodes, we will again meet again Maddie, the (female) dog of a Bavarian dyer, known from the series Maddie and Patter. Together with her puppies – Ada, Buck, Cilla, Drakey and Eda – she lives in the lodge of the kind gamekeeper Václav in the middle of woods, and every day tells them a bedtime story. She wishes all her offspring to grow to be cute doggies, and therefore takes good care of their education. At the beginning of each episode, we will thus see what new things the puppies have learned and what interesting experiences they have had since last time. We will observe them from the moment they make their first steps till the time when they are big and old enough to go and live with their new masters. The puppies however are not the only characters of this series. We will for instance listen to the story of a little rabbit, badgers, little fawn, beaver and racoon dog. But there's a number of other creatures living in the forest and at the gamekeeper's lodge, some common, others rare – such as crested tit, sparrow hawk or wood grouse, – who will play a role in the stories. And in some, people will, too, some helping the animals, others causing them trouble.

Little Brothers Bráškové

This is another of the successful serials that introduce children to the wonders of nature and nature's creatures. Little Vašek is spending his summer holidays in a forester's lodge amidst endless woods and forests. One day he finds a box on the threshold and in it two puppies that look somewhat like German sheep dogs. Vašek's father, a professional photographer, is willing to take them in, and so Vašek becomes a nurse and coach to the two little orphans. The pups are doing well, they are growing fast and soon the sweet little balls of fluff become leggy rascals whose games and battles look like serious fights and hunts. Vašek is ever more convinced that the two little dogs he is looking after are in fact wolves. This is finally confirmed by the vet. When the holidays come to an end, Vašek will have to leave the wolves at the forester's, and how sad that makes him. He spent the most wonderful summer holiday ever with his pups. He can't stop thinking of 'his wolves' even in faraway Africa, where his father has taken him on a photography safari. On his return he could hardly recognize his darlings, but they recognized him all right and welcomed him back like a long-lost friend.

The documentary series about the problems faced by people whom Fate has chosen to endow with extraordinary talent aspires to encourage a healthy self-reflection of the "average" society which either gives them a chance or deprives them of it, thus deciding about the quality of their further mental life. On the other hand, it is intended as a message for all those whom the "Fairy Godmothers" presented with what other people were denied that even though their lives may not always be a bed of roses, they are not alone with their troubles. The series should tell them that being singular and extraordinary is not a crime but a gift which needs to be cosseted and developed.

Mucha the Phenomenon Fenomén Mucha

Known and unknown moments in the life and work of the founder of the art nouveau trend in painting. In 2010, a hundred and fifty years had elapsed since the birth of Alfons Mucha, a memorable figure not only in artistic but also in human terms. Coming from a humble background, he made his mark in the „great" world, easily mingling with its upper crust. He won worldwide renown especially during his stay in Paris, mainly thanks to his six-year contract with Sarah Bernhardt. It is precisely this period on which the documentary concentrates. Its makers captured the essential milestones in the artist's life, showing the places in Paris which still remind us of him. In a retrospect they trace the beginnings of his career, describe his stay in the United States, and his work on the Slavonic Epopee.

Africa Obscura

The Africa obscura is a documentary that concerns contemporary Africa as a photographic phenomenon. But this time, the record is made through the medium of old analogue photographic and motion-picture cameras, which were revived at the beginning of the 21st century here. By this means, photographer Jan Svatos and his expedition is looking for a legacy of the pioneer-film-makers Martin and Osa Johnson in an arid and harsh northern Kenya region. One of the aim of the movie is to present this marginalized and despised northern Kenya in a new alluring light. The documentary authentically performs almost 100 years evolution of wildlife photography in this area and finds out, whether modern-day man, used to the simplicity of modern technology, is at all capable of taking photographs using outdated photographic equipment, including developing films in removable darkroom.

The Tap Tap

Twelve years' existence, regular participation at festivals like Between Fences, Rock for People or the Ladronkafest, performances on television, collaboration with well-known singers... That is the Tap Tap band. However, their most important characteristic is that playing in the band gives its members – students with serious physical handicaps from Prague's Jedlička Institute – self-assurance and enjoyment of life. Zora Cejnková's documentary film presents the founder and band-leader Šimon Ornest and also three of the band members – Jana Augustinová, Jiří Holzmán and Ladislav Angelovič. All three permit us to look into their life stories, their families and also their dreams. How does the band help them fulfill their dreams? What does it bring them and what do they bring to the band? Does music help them overcome barriers within themselves as well as in their surroundings?

Věra 68

One-hundred-and forty medals, including seven gold and four silver Olympic ones, make the gymnast Věra Čáslavská the most successful among Czechoslovak athletes of all times. Following her impressive triumphs at the 1968 Olympic Games in Mexico, she was declared the best sportswoman of the world, and became the second most popular woman of the planet after Jacqueline Kennedy, with the whole world falling at her feet. In the same year, she signed the "Two Thousand Words" manifesto, the most important document of the Prague Spring, calling for a democratic reform of the communist regime. Enthusiastic ovations were followed by her social fall; yet she never disavowed her signature under the manifesto. After the Velvet Revolution she became adviser of President Václav Havel, but in 1993, following a family tragedy, she effaced herself. Now, after sixteen years of retirement from the public scene, she is taking her place on it again. The full-length document narrates the life story of Věra Čáslavská, one of the most successful women of the world, inter alia holder of the supreme Japanese honours, which at the same time mirrors Czechoslovak history, and reflects a unique phenomenon in the history of the Czech nation.

Keep the Rhythm! Drž rytmus!

In August 2009, fifty years had passed since the death of the great Czech composer Bohuslav Martinů. A team of artists prepared a magnificent dance show in honour of this anniversary. The film director was especially interested in its socially educational aspect. The dancers were children aged 8–18 chosen at schools in "problem" quarters.

The project Špalíček to music by Bohuslav Martinů was based on the incentive of the successful artistic project of the Berlin Philharmonic Orchestra. The aim of the Czech project was the participation of children and young people into the process who had as yet had no experience nor any special dispositions for dance or other forms of artistic expression and came from different social and national groups, in combination with children talented for dancing.

Brno Philharmonic Orchestra Filharmonie Brno

The Brahms symphony in F major is a peak example of the composer's work and the brilliant Glagolian Mass by Leoš Janáček belongs to the most powerful works of sacred compositions in the history of music. Nowhere in the world is it presented very often because of the highly demanding vocal and instrumental parts, and so every performance is considered a great occasion. These two compositions resounded at an exceptional concert held under the baton of the renowned German conductor Bernhard Klee in a former factory in Brno that has been transformed into a gallery of modern art – the Wanieck Gallery.

Pavel Šporcl & Romano Stilo Pavel Šporcl & Romano Stilo

Recording of the 500th concert of the International Music Festival "Smetana's Litomyšl" (taking place in the composer's native town), for which the violin virtuoso Pavel Šporcl "teamed up" with the Slovak Romany cimbalom band Romano Stilo. It was not only the meeting of representatives of different music types, but also the unusual repertoire and the atmosphere on the platform and in the auditorium that made the event unique. Just as Pavel Šporcl crosses with gusto the borders between the classical and other music genres, Romano Stilo can hardly be regarded as an "orthodox" cimbalom band. Melodies of Slovak, Hungarian, Romanian and mainly Romany folk songs were blended in the concert programme with original arrangements of famous pieces of classical music. Šporcl plays repertoire which may seem to be the preserve of musicians with gypsy blood in their veins with absolute confidence, his rendering is convincing, and in Romano Stilo he found excellent partners.

Vivaldianno

One of the best contemporary Czech violin virtuosos on the Czech music scene Jaroslav Svěcený, and rock pianist and composer Michal Dvořák, founding member of the Lucie group, which was the most famous Czech music formation of the turn of the century, have created a timeless multi-genre musical project they named Vivaldianno. This stirring, spectacular show is created by forty musicians, dancers and singers from all over the world and was composed in honour of the titan of Baroque music Antonio Vivaldi, whose work inspires musicians of all generations and addresses listeners even now at the beginning of the third millennium.

Vivaldianno MMXII

The extraordinarily successful Vivaldianno music project continues. Its chief protagonists, violin virtuoso Jaroslav Svěcený and rock pianist and the project author Michal Dvořák, have prepared for their fans its loose follow-up, presented under the name Vivaldianno MMXII. In experimenting with the sounds of classical, ethnic as well as electronic musical instruments, they have drawn inspiration not only from the timeless music of Antonio Vivaldi, but also that of the geniuses Bach and Mozart, the violinist and composer Fritz Kreisler, and the Argentinian magician Astor Piazzola. The two outstanding Czech musicians are accompanied by musicians from Peru and Bolivia, supported by the quena and siku virtuoso Vlado Urlich. The guests – including Herold Quartet, Melody Quartet, Tam Tam Orchestra and a number of other artists – are a guarantee of supreme quality. The unique blend of music of times past and present thus assumes a new dimension.
