(VRAŽEDNÉ STÍNY)

A two-part crime drama set in the present day. During a secret meeting with an informer, Alan Kreiner's boss, the Chief of Police, is fatally wounded by a gunman trying to prevent disclosure of damaging information about shady activities involving Kreiner's colleagues. The police do not know – or rather do not want to know – about the mysterious shooter, and Alan is taken into custody as a murder suspect because the weapon used in the shooting was his private handgun. Alan needs to get out of jail to prove his innocence and find the real killer, so he accepts an offer from Mr. Lindner, an attorney who promises to defend his case for an incredibly low fee. Can Lindner clear Alan's name or is there some hidden agenda behind the offer?
